MEXICO 7—GOULD 0

For the second successive Saturday the Gould gridsters have failed to score. This is something that hasn't happened before in the history of Scott-coached teams. Although the two teams haven't met every year this was Mexico's first victory over Gould since 1935. The Pintos put over the winning counter in the first period when Whytock passed to Roy who scampered across the line standing up. The extra point came in similar fashion as Whytock this time passed to Swan. There was no further scoring as the game waxed fast and furious. The Pintos made seven first downs to four for the Huskies.

ST. JOHNSBURY MEETS GOULD ON PARENTS' DAY SATURDAY

Saturday is Parents' Day at Gould Academy and the special feature of the week-end festivities is the Gould-St. Johnsbury football game scheduled to start at 2 p. m. on Alumni Field. Coach Scott's pigskin toters are smarting from two successive shutouts and are anxious to redeem themselves here on Saturday at the expense of the Vermont invaders. This will be the first game between the two schools and should prove to be an interesting interstate game. Gould lost to a Vermont school two weeks ago when they met Lyndon Institute and hope they will break even with their out-of-state rivals with victory on Parents' Day.

WEST PARISH CENTENNIAL HUGE SUCCESS

In a spontaneous demonstration of unity and loyalty, more than 200 members and friends of the West Parish Congregational gathered over the week-end to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of their church building.
The celebration began on Saturday evening with an banquet in the church vestry. Elwood Ireland presided as toastmaster. He read telegrams and greetings from members of the church who could not attend. The Rev John J Foster, former minister of the church, gave a word of greeting. Mrs Achenbach, the wife of a former minister, the late Rev S T Achenbach, also spoke briefly. Mrs R R Tibbets told some anecdotes from the history of the church that were enjoyed by everyone. The Gould Academy male quartet sang several numbers.

After the banquet the people adjourned to the church sanctuary. Grace Lenfest gave a short concert on the harp during the intermission. An old fashioned play, "Recollections of West Parish Church," written by Priscilla A Hawthorne, was presented. This play proved to be an inspiration to all. It was particularly appropriate for the occasion, because it emphasized the spiritual unity of the church. The play ended with the entire congregation singing "The Church's One Foundation."

A throng of people filled the church and approached the Easter attendance, on Sunday morning for the Service of Rededication. Dr Douglas Horton, Minister of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches, U. S. A. gave the principal address. Dr Cornelius Clark brought greetings from the sister churches in the State Conference of the Congregational Churches in Maine. Dr Horton spoke on the general topic "The Power of the Right Idea." Commenting on the heartening response, the Rev K W Hawthorne, Minister of the West Parish Church, said, "This burst of enthusiasm makes a high point in the history of the Congregational Church in Bethel. We are assured of even brighter days ahead."

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Plate, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

At the request of General Lucius D. Clay, Commander-in-Chief of the European Command, U S Army Forces, Lewis H. Brown recently made a trip to Europe to study Western Germany's postwar industrial potential. Mr. Brown, who is Chairman of the Board of the Johns-Manville Corporation, is preparing a 250-page report which will go to General Clay, Secretary Marshall and other high officials. In the meantime, he has released a brief summary of his findings. It adds up to one of the most thorough and realistic proposals yet made concerning the vexing German situation.

Mr. Brown's purpose is to indicate what must be done if the Marshall Plan is to succeed, and a program developed which will be acceptable to Congress. His basic point is that German industry must be restored and the German people must be given new hope. That involves a number of specific steps, which include: An end to the reparations of capital goods; an end to complex financial and bureaucratic shackles which now prevent German exports; German participation in Marshall Plan discussions so far as they affect German needs; a central banking system and a new currency for Germany as soon as a central government with a balanced budget can be effected. That program, Mr. Brown believes, would mark the first effective step to stop the spread of communism west of the Iron Curtain.

The key to the revival of German industry is coal. The key to coal production is adequate food. The average German is living on a starvation diet of 1,200 calories a day—a third of the American level. Mr. Brown recommends that the diet for all Germans be progressively improved, and that special incentive diet be given to specialized groups—starting with the miners in the Ruhr. This would be accomplished by providing the miners with coupons enabling them to get a 75 per cent increase in rations in return for a 50 per cent increase in coal production. Annual coal production in the Ruhr is now 65,000,000 tons. Mr. Brown's plan would increase it to 99,000,000 tons by the end of 1948.

But that is only the beginning of his solution for Germany's economic problem. The German transportation system, due to terrific war damage, cannot haul the coal away from the mines. We have been attempting to export 10,000,000 tons of coal from Germany to Russia, France, Switzerland and other countries. The rail hauls have been monstrously long and have tied up railroad equipment that is already short and is vitally needed elsewhere. And this is where, in Mr. Brown's opinion, Great Britain comes into the picture.

Prior to the war, England was the principle supplier of coal to western Europe. The coal was brought by water to the large ports, around which major industrial areas grew up. Transportation to other areas was by short rail haul or by barge. Now England no longer supplies coal to Western Europe, and that, Mr. Brown says, is both a barrier to German industrial recovery and one of the biggest contributing factors to the British dollar shortage. His solution is to declare a moratorium of from 12 to 15 months on the shipment of coal out of Germany so that all German coal can be employed inside the country. If that is done, he writes, "The restoration of not only Germany but of Western Europe could be assured." The only way it can be done is for Western Europe to again be supplied with British coal. Thus the problem comes home to England and her labor government.

England has great coal resources and a great coal industry. But production has been diminishing. That, Mr. Brown thinks, is in large part caused by Labor's nationalization program and the policy of an equal amount of austerity for everyone. His point is that, "Austerity cannot take the place of production." He believes strongly that Britain should give her miners direct incentives to go to the 6-day week and to sharply step up production. This would be a boon to the British economy—30,000,000 tons of coal exported at current prices would almost bridge the gap that now exists between England's exports and imports.

The United States, Mr. Brown continues, will have to contribute heavily if his plan is to succeed. But he wants our contribution to be made as part of an organized program whose end is to put Europe on her feet. He thinks that food must be supplied to Germany, not primarily as relief, but on a five-year plan under which the food will be used as an incentive to get German industry into production. Loans to Great Britain must be made on the same basis, and be used as an incentive to get production. Then, the loans can finally be repaid through the transfer of goods to us. The mechanics of repayment, he feels, should be established at the beginning.

Lastly, Mr. Brown considers what Russia might do in the face of such a plan for the reconstruction of Western Europe. He does not believe she will go to war. He does believe that if we fail, a worldwide economic depression will result, and then Russia, trading on misery and unrest, will achieve her aim.

The foregoing touches the high points of a brilliant and constructive survey. As Mr. Brown says at the end, it is imperative for "the leaders of our government and the committees of Congress to act with the utmost promptness in developing a plan that can be submitted to a special session of Congress this fall."

LITTLE MEN, WHAT NOW!

Well, the bicycles were removed from the sidewalks but the trend now is to put them back where they were safer, on the sidewalk. The bikes were left to the mercy of motorists, so to speak, when left in the street, due to the fact that no racks or other area for the expressed use of the cyclists was provided. This is not a defense of leaving bicycles on the sidewalk. But I think that someone ought to do something to remedy this situation. The present flash threat of enforcement was the direct result of a complaint of a "law abiding" citizen, or so was the rumor at the time.

Many of the complainants against the cyclists were the violators of regulations as important or more so. But the "holier than thou" attitude employed by these parties was really childish in many respects. Merely the fact that a person is licensed to operate a motor vehicle does not give a person the right to park in front of drive-ways, or needle up beside of a fire hydrant.

The parking regulations were adopted on May 23, 1944 and were probably enforced less than 18 months after they were valid on—continued on page eight appropriated $40,000, thereby relieving the towns of that financial burden.

In snow removal, we have appropriated $1,700,000 compared to $800,000 for that purpose in 1939.

In addition, we are retiring approximately three million dollars worth of highway bonds in the present biennium, in addition to paying nearly $750,000 in bond interest, and we are doing it all out of current revenue!

LET'S MAKE MAINE THE SAFEST STATE IN WHICH TO AUNT?

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF HUNTING SAFETY

(Recommended by the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers' Institute)

1. Treat EVERY gun with the respect due to a LOADED gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only EMPTY guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp or home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.
5. Be SURE of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun untended unless you unlock it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or at the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

No genuine sportsman EVER will point a gun at another person, nor engage in horseplay with anybody holding a gun—loaded or not. Accidents often happen because a hunter has just shot at a deer or other game and seeing the bushes move he pulls the trigger before positively identifying his target. ALWAYS be certain that it is game you're shooting at—even if you're in the heat of the chase. One man's life is far more valuable than all the game that might get away.

VIGUE - GALLANT

St. Charles Church, Bridgeport, Conn., was the scene of a simple but beautiful wedding, Saturday, Oct. 4, when Miss Bella Dora Gallant, formerly of Bethel, became the bride of Edward G. Vigue, son of Mrs. Alice Vigue and the late G. Arthur Vigue of Gorham, N. H.

Mrs. Vigue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Gallant of Bridgeport, formerly of Bethel.

The bride entered the church escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a pearl gray suit with white accessories and a hat made of pink ostrich tips and shoulder length veil. She carried a prayer book with orchid marker.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was her cousin, Miss Marie Aracnault of Bridgeport, as maid of honor who was dressed in a dusty pink suit with burgundy accessories and carried nosegay of red roses. Ernest Gallant of Bethel, brother of the bride served as Mr. Vigue's best man. The Rev. Gloster performed the ceremony.

The wedding dinner was held at the Fairway Restaurant and an evening reception at the General Electric Union Hall.

The bride's gift to her maid of honor was a pair of rhinestone earrings and the groom's gift to his best man was a wallet.

The bride's mother was dressed in a plum colored crepe dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

The groom's mother wore a black and white print crepe dress with black accessories and also wore a gardenia corsage.

Immediately following the reception the couple left for a short honeymoon in Vermont. Upon their return, they will reside in Gorham, N. H., with Mr. Vigue's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stephenson.

LIFE BEGINS WITH A G-E AUTOMATIC BLANKET

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT is the keynote to sound, restful sleep. A single featherweight Automatic Blanket does the work of three regular blankets in keeping you snugly warm on the coldest nights. Colors are rose, blue, green and cedar. Bedmaking is easier, too, with but one blanket.

YOUR WASHING MACHINE or a commercial laundry is the proper place to wash your Automatic Blanket. To keep it looking new, just follow the easy directions that come with each blanket.

DUAL CONTROL blankets enable two persons to have individually regulated temperatures... each half of blanket is heated and controlled independently of the other. Including tax, single control blankets cost $42.07... dual control blankets $52.53.

SET THE DIAL to the temperature you like best, turn on the switch and go to sleep with the assurance that you'll be warm until the alarm clock sounds. Turn the blanket on for a few minutes just before retiring, and a warm bed will await you.

General Assembly Gets Under Way

U. N. Delegates Convene At Town Hall of the World

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—At the opening of the current session of the United Nations general assembly I made the usual rounds greeting friends from far corners of the earth whom these meetings bring together. Two converged upon me and one of them began to discourse on the fact that we three were becoming conference veterans.

He started to say "... let's see how many is it, there was the first Quebec, then the second Quebec, ..." But the other man interrupted him and remarked gently: "Oh, no, it goes further back than that. This is my forty-fourth. Remember there was a League of Nations, too?"

The younger man stopped. Of course, his gray haired colleague was right. "And you still believe," the younger man asked earnestly, "that some day they'll work?"

"Certainly," was the reply. And it was made with such simple sincerity that we "youngsters" felt a little reproved.

The next day I walked to a railway station across the beautiful Flushing Meadows in the twilight, the scent of autumn grass all about us, with one of those prodigies, an "Instant Translator." She was one of the specialists who are quite as efficient as the males. But it was not her feminine charm which attracted me. It was her wit which was to be discovered.

I tried to ask her a little about her work, my first question being: "Isn't it interesting?"

Interesting? Oh, for a while, she answered, "but one would like to get around a little more. I have been here since spring. I'd like to get back to the Orient and other places."

I mentioned that we had had simultaneous translation at Nuremberg. "Oh, I was there," she said, "and always cold. One could never get warm, anywhere." I agreed. "And," she added, "I went there direct from India."

I tried to get some observation from her on the idea behind these conferences and their effort to bring about world understanding and world peace. "Do you think that they are worthwhile?" I asked. "We're always asking that, hopefully if a little wistfully."

"Oh, yes," she replied quickly. They are much better than none at all, much. But I feel that the men here do not really wish to make sacrifices to have peace. The men in their own governments do not wish them to make enough concessions to rob the officials in the different governments of their own power. And so the beautiful words they use are only rationalization. They express idealistic thoughts, but when it comes to acting in implementation, they do not wish to go that far. They already have satisfied that feeling they know they should have, to do the right thing. Then they do not have to do it. Just as all of us rationalize our own misconduct."

That gave me a pause.

It also gave me some hope for this session for I believe that the powers of the assembly will be strengthened so that they can enforce what the people want.

The two words and idealistic plans will have more force if the permanent committee of the assembly on peace and security, which Secretary of State Marshall proposed, is created. It will be in session all the time. Its voice, unopposed by the assembly, will be heard continuously; not merely when the assembly itself is in session.

Words Contain Great Significance

Words still are making trouble, as they always have. It isn't what we say so much as what people think we mean. For instance, there was a long discussion of the word "impingement" on the second day of the assembly meeting. This was just the English meaning, discussed among English speaking reporters. Secretary Marshall had said this new permanent committee of the assembly would not "impinge" on the security council. The great argument about the committee has been that it was intended to bypass the security council itself, and thus dock the veto.

If the English-speaking reporters weren't quite sure how far you go, or don't go, when you "impinge," it's no wonder there was confusion when it was translated into half a dozen other languages.

It was the translation of one word which nearly caused a revolution in Korea and made the work of the American commission there infinitely more difficult. It also has affected the whole course of action by the assembly on Korea. It was the word "trusteeship."

There is no word which properly translates "democracy" in Russian. When using the term the Russians merely give the English word its Russian form. But what a gulf between their meaning and ours. Liberty of the individual is not implied at all in the Russian concept.

Indeed, many people have said there is no real desire for liberty on the part of the modern Russian generation. And yet they constantly describe their country and their satellites as "democracies."

There was a good deal of electioneering before and during the close battle over the election for the presidency of the assembly. At first the American delegation had intended to vote for Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil. He is an old and staunch friend of the United States. But he felt that Brazil had had enough honors at the recent conference in Rio, that he had served one term before and that it would be best not to run. He said he didn't want the job. So our delegates pledged for Evatt of Australia, who was exceedingly anxious to be elected. But the Latin-Americans would have none of it. They demanded Aranha run. The contest narrowed to him and Evatt. This put Russia on the spot. Latin-America wants to liberalize the veto, Evatt would tear it to pieces. And the veto is the Russian pet. But the United States was for Evatt so Russia voted for Aranha and he won.

The Russian delegation went into a huddle on the floor. The Russian delegates had to be told just how to vote. And who should be the man who ran around, taking orders—or shall we say suggestions—from the Russian delegation to the various groups, Albania, Poland and the others under the Russian thumb?

It was Sarge M. Koudiatzev, a member of the staff of advisors to the Russian delegation. That name didn't mean much to me but I was reminded by Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun, who always has a sharp eye out for such matters, that this active gentleman was the man named as the "architect" of the Russian spy system, in the report on the plot to obtain official secrets from the Canadian government.

Two women are exceedingly popular at the assembly meetings and their popularity seems to grow. One is Mrs. Pandit Nehru, wife of the Indian leader, and one is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. They are both active and intelligent Mrs. Pandit (last names come first in India, as in many other countries) has been named ambassador to Russia by her new government.

I couldn't help thinking, considering the recent emancipation of women in India that Mrs. Pandit was more like Mrs. Roosevelt, than Mrs. Roosevelt herself, when you consider the unconventional nature of both judged by the standards of their respective older generations.

SIX BILLION A YEAR

Farm Co-ops Do Huge Trade

If volume of trade is any indication, America's farm cooperatives are establishing themselves ever more firmly as a significant force in the realm of agriculture.

In the 1945-46 marketing year, farm cooperatives, with more than five million individual farmers participating, did a record six billion dollar business, according to an estimate by the farm credit administration of the department of agriculture.

NEWS REVIEW

Conserve Food: Truman; U.N. Adopts Agenda

FOOD PLANS:

Conservation

It wasn't hard for President Truman to figure out: Europe is in desperate need of food from the U. S. but the U. S. will leave itself wide open for even greater price spiraling if it boosts its exports much higher.

The answer, he told a special press conference, is food conservation by all Americans. It is not a matter of eating any less, he said, but of wasting less.

In line with that, he announced the setting up of a citizens food committee to develop a food conservation program in the nation. Charles Luckman of Cambridge, Mass., president of Lever Brothers, was named president.

Regarding Europe, Mr. Truman said the food and fuel situation there is too critical to allow time for detailed study. Thus, apparently in an emergency frame of mind, the President called together congressional leaders to discuss possible steps that could be taken immediately to aid the starving continent.

If possible, he said, he would not call a special session of congress if stop-gap aid for Europe could be pushed through without resorting to that step.

Americans could start preparing for a heavy barrage of food conservation propaganda.

TOUGH AGENDA:

No Dodging

United Nations general assembly proved at least one thing in the first week of its current session—it isn't going to dodge any issues.

After riotous preliminary sessions in which they heard the U. S. and Russia lay each other verbally and U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie called for an end to feuding, the delegates voted doggedly to take on the entire list of tough, almost insoluble problems standing as a barrier to world accord.

Among the items admitted to the agenda were the partition of Palestine, peace in the Balkans, independence of Korea and Marshall's proposal to reorganize U. N. machinery to hold a tighter rein on the turbulent peace.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky's resolution calling on member nations to take criminal action against warmongering propagandists was wholeheartedly admitted to debate, probably because it will provide a chance to mull over the concept of freedom of the press.

ABSOLED:

Hirohito

Even while five high ranking Japanese army and navy officers were being hanged by the neck in payment for their crimes of cannibalism, torture and murder of U. S. prisoners, Emperor Hirohito was being publicly absolved of any responsibility for the Pacific war by the chief U. S. war crimes prosecutor.

Joseph B. Keenan told the international war crimes tribunal that "The prosecution believes the people in the dock are really responsible for this war. If there had been any one else, they would be in the dock too."

ELEANOR:

An Old Note

"Dear Summer — This Elster case seems a hard nut to crack. What do you suggest? Sincerely, E. H."

That, Summer Welles, former undersecretary of state, told the house committee on un-American activities, was a note he received from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in 1939 when the then first lady was interested in obtaining an open hearing on the passport application of one Hanns Elster, Austrian refugee from Hitler.

The note, an almost forgotten memento of the prewar era, was hailed resoundingly in newspapers across the land because Hanns Elster was accused of being a Communist. He is the brother of Gerhart Elster, No. 1 agent of the Kremlin in the U. S.

Mrs. Roosevelt Hanns Elster

Elster and his wife finally were issued visas in Mexico City to cover their entrance into this country. He has taken out naturalization papers and is a song-writer in Hollywood.

In 1926, Elster told the committee, he had applied for membership in the German Communist party, but had dropped out. A department of labor report made in 1938 said of him: "The evidence establishes preponderantly that Hanns Elster is a Communist."

Mrs. Roosevelt's attitude toward the affair was lackadaisical. The note to Welles on behalf of Elster was strictly routine, she said, adding that she neither knew Elster nor remembered the note.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 12.

The Golden Text is: "He that is our God is the God of salvation" and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death" (Psalms 145: 17).

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works" (Psalms 145: 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sickness, sin, and death, being inharmonious, do not originate in God nor belong to His government. God is an incapable of producing sin, sickness, and death as He is of experiencing these errors. God is not the author of mortal discords. Therefore we accept the conclusion that discords have only a fabulous existence, are mortal beliefs which divine Truth and Love destroy" (pages 472: 9-10, 356: 19-21, and 251: 10-10).

From Our Files

10 YEARS AGO - Oct. 7, 1937.

Four Dixfield men, Willis Walte, Albert Root, William Kidder and John Trask were drowned when their car left the road and lay on its side in Mill-Brook near the Calvin Cummings place in Albany. The men, all of whom were about 80 years old, were on their way to Waterford Fair when they failed to make the sharp turn.

A $25,000 fire at Waterford destroyed six buildings and damaged the library.

The home of Mrs. Grace Coffin at Rumford Center was burned in a $10,000 fire.

20 YEARS AGO - Oct. 8, 1927. The annual fair at Bear River Grange at Newry Corner was very successful.

"Stop and go" signals were installed at the temporary bridge over the Androscoggin.

Miss Thelma Bennett was working in Dr. E. L. Brown's office.

A heavy rain caused severe washouts in roads.

Deaths — Mrs. Maud Thurston Glover, Frank Billings.

30 YEARS AGO - Oct. 11, 1917. A large number attended Waterford fair in spite of bad roads.

A fire started by a spark on the roof of the chair factory building, used by H. F. Thurston, was put out by the fire department with little damage.

The Volunteer Fire Company cleared $60 in a benefit ball for the boys in the service.

40 YEARS AGO - Oct. 9, 1907. Announcement was made of the purchase by Liberty E. Holden of Cleveland, Ohio, of the Bowler property (formerly G. R. Wiley) on Church Street, to be used as a dormitory by Gould's Academy.

Bethel Library Association received $500 from William W. Hastings, to be used for improvement of the library room and purchase of reference books.

June 3, 1944. The more vexing violations are herewith listed:

I. All night parking: This rule has been a farce, particularly with no attempt at the enforcement of the statute. At some pretense of staying within the law some cars were parked on SIDEWALKS, this was occurring in the winter only. This in flagrant violation of Sec. 8, Art. 1.

II. Double Parking. In the very recent past a locked car has been parked beside of another car towards the middle of the street. This occurred on Main Street and covered a period of three hours or more.

III. Other recent and for that matter longstanding violations of the rules, has been the insistence of some citizens to park on the wrong side of the street facing traffic. Other inexcusable violations are, except in great emergency, the following: parking in front of or 10 feet on either side of public or private driveways; parking within 15 feet of a fire hydrant; within 25 feet of a corner, including those of Main and Church Streets, Main and Elm Streets, Main and Mechanic Streets, where cars are invariably crowded right up to the corner; although not expressly forbidden as such, the practice of making U turns to park nearer to one's destination should not be condoned by the government of the village.

It states in Sec. 10 of the regulations that they may be suspended by the Assessors at which time they may see fit. They might well have been suspended in the recent past, yes, you might say for a disgrace to the community, let's have something done and quickly.

There is really no fault that can be found with the present Board of Assessors, considering the old-fashioned ideas they had to buck to get anything done. The Board has always had to wait for public opinion to erupt before doing anything. There is a place for cars and a place for bicycles, but they should be segregated when they try to park.
